

Admission Appeal Policy and Procedure

Appeal Policy

- Eligibility:
 - This appeals process is only for currently enrolled undergraduate students at CSU. The appeal is based upon their CSU performance.
 - Students who are admitted directly to the University (either transfer or freshmen), but not the COB are not eligible for the appeal. Admission for incoming students to the University is determined by the Office of Admissions at the time of application to CSU.
 - Students who are on Academic Probation will not be considered for an appeal.
 - Any currently enrolled CSU undergraduate student may submit an appeal for admission to the College of Business up to, but not exceeding two times.

- Process:
 - Appeal for Admission Forms and all supporting documentation must be submitted in room 110 Rockwell West by 12:00pm on the Friday of Finals week. Late submissions will not be considered.
 - The College of Business Appeals Committee convenes three times per year (after grades have been posted in the fall, spring, and summer terms).

- Determining Factors:
 - The College of Business Appeals Committee grants appeals based upon documented extenuating circumstances that could have realistically contributed to the student not meeting the required admission criteria.
 - Examples of extenuating circumstances include, but are not limited to, a death of a close family member, a medical emergency that required extended hospitalization, or an emotional/mental tragedy (documentation is required for verification of extenuating circumstance).
 - Students who have shown a consistent improvement in GPA over several semesters will be considered, but not guaranteed an appeal.
