TEACHING

I have taught undergraduate and graduate level courses in Organizational Behavior and Team Management. I have also taught Data Analysis and Interpretation, a freshman level core course for the Walton College of Business at the University of Arkansas. I served as course coordinator for this course as well. I have also devoted considerable time to the research methodology curriculum of the Ph.D. program at the Walton College of Business with regular courses in Multiple Regression/Correlation Methods and general research design, as well as periodic topical seminars. At CSU I taught a course in data analysis to students in the Global Social & Sustainable Enterprise MBA Program. I also teach MBA classes on managing human capital in the MBA program and Introduction to Management for undergraduates.
